Dr Reichle is an art historian interested in the complex relationship between art and science. Their often overlooked common history became the major subject of her dissertation, "Art from the laboratory to the relationship between art and science in the Age of Technoscience." She is one of relatively few art historians in the world working in this area.

Dr. Reichle studied at the University of Hamburg and at Humboldt University in Berlin. She has also studied in Freiburg and London, and has research interests in Italy. She has taught courses in new media art and the interplay between art and science.

Dr. Reichle will be staying with us at Tembusu College for five days only, which is why we have moved this Master's Tea to the Monday time-slot.

Please note there will be no Work In Progress seminar this week as a result.
